The basic objective of this Lecture is to aware the students With the changing times, the face of the corporate world is also changing, wherein the need-of-the-hour is to have state-of-the-art professionals who are agile enough to meet the growing demands of the industry. These professionals, if trained properly, can gain amazing dexterity in dealing with various on- the-job situations. Each individual carries within himself/herself a mine of potentials, which if tapped properly can create astonishing results. A trained person is better equipped than an untrained one as she/he is professionally trained to handle pressures, whereas an untrained individual valiantly learns by trial and error.

More than 110 students get benefited by this session. Along with Dr. Hemant Gupta (HOD-ME), Mr. Sanjay kumawat, and some faculty members also attended the session. Mr. Naveen talked about the benefits of English communication and available career opportunities. he also elaborate his talk with the question that how English communication and career advancement correlate are linked together.

Mr. Naveen said that English language is widely acknowledged at both the developed and developing worlds. Though, it is spoken largely in the developed countries, yet post LPG era, its significance has increased manifolds in the developing countries too. The two most important components of English are English Speaking and English Writing, have its own relevance in their respective areas. In cases like English TV journalism, corporate communication, Management, Presentation, Knowledge sharing, etc., the importance of English speaking is much more. In these cases, your fluency, way of expression, phonetics, pronunciation is at the foremost place. While English writing medium is dominant over speaking in Print media like newspaper, magazine, journal, newsletter, tabloids and academic work.

Mr. Sanjay kumawat felicitate Mr. Naveen by memento and said that this session will be helpful not only the students but faculty members also in their profession for the enhancement of qualities and management.
